Who is EAA?

The Educational Audiology Association (EAA) is an international professional organization for audiologists who specialize in the management of hearing and reduced hearing within the educational environment.

The mission of the Educational Audiology Association is to act as the primary resource and as an active advocate for its members through its publications and products, continuing educational activities, networking opportunities and other professional endeavors.

EAA was established in 1984, to advocate for educational audiologists and the students and their families they serve. American Academy of Audiology (AAA), American Speech-Language Hearing Association (ASHA) and AG Bell recognize EAA as a related professional organization (RPO) which facilitates direct communication between EAA, AAA, ASHA and other RPOs as well as providing a forum for EAA issues. Through the efforts of the EAA Executive Board, committees and individual members, the association responds to issues and concerns which shape our profession.

EAA is open to audiologists, speech-language pathologists, teachers of the deaf and hard of hearing and other professionals from related fields who have an active interest in the mission of the association. Associate membership is available to college students with a special interest in this area.

Who attends the EAA Conference? Over 67% of our conference attendees in 2023 were EAA members, and over 80% of attendees were Audiologists.
